Want to eat fresh greens in February? Hoping to have flowers in November? Cold frames make it possible by creating a warm place that's free from frost. Vinyl cold frames will not rot or splinter and will last for years. The cold frame retains heat and acts like a miniature greenhouse, so your plants can be started before the growing season begins and last after the first frost. Cold frames also work well in places with poor soil conditions or improper drainage. Place one of these vinyl cold frames near your kitchen for a large, convenient herb garden or planter.
